

Belgian King Decks Tomb of Washington

Albert, Queen and Prince Visit Mount Vernon and See Sarcophagus and the Home of First President

Guests on the Mayflower

Prince Taken Ill at Dinner Given by Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Belgium's monarchs paid homage to-day to the memory of Washington. At peaceful Mount Vernon, overlooking the placid Potomac, King Albert placed a wreath upon the sarcophagus of the nation's first Chief Executive. There was no more of pomp and ceremony than when he visited the spots where the Grant, Lincoln and Roosevelt, but the simple ceremony was none the less deeply impressive.

Leading first from the bar, which carried them from the Presidential mansion to the Mayflower, Vice-President Marshall, the members of the Cabinet and their wives, and preceded the Belgians in the gently sloping walk which leads to the tomb, awaiting there the coming of the King. Albert led the royal party, followed by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold.

His majesty uncovered as he approached the red brick structure in the face of which is a simple slab of white marble bearing the inscription: "Within this enclosure rest the remains of General George Washington." Then he lifted the huge wreath of yellow and white chrysanthemums which rested against the wall and stepped to the gate held open by an armed negro guard. King Albert bowed at the entrance and stepped within, placing the flowers gently upon the granite slab. Then he bowed this time more deeply, and stepped backward from the tomb. The Queen and the Prince then made obeisance before the sarcophagus, but no American stepped within the tomb. There was no other ceremony.

The trip down the river was one of the memorable events of the Belgians' American tour. The King and his party were welcomed to the Mayflower with the ceremony the navy knows well. When the motor cars carrying them entered the navy yard a gun barked the Presidential salute and the standard of Belgium was hoisted as his majesty stepped aboard. A boy's whistle piped its greeting and a band played the "Marseillaise." At the masthead was raised the flag of the Vice-President, which had to be made especially for the occasion.

As the Mayflower dropped anchor nearest Mount Vernon a bugler sounded taps and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" while the military members of the party stood rigidly at salute. The impressive little ceremony was repeated when the yacht began the return journey.

The spotless Mayflower carried more than 200 passengers, and luncheon was served on the way down the river. The party was taken ashore in barges, the King leaving last. From the tomb their majesties and the prince were taken to the historic colonial mansion where Washington lived and died. Albert stood on the wide veranda looking out over the broad expanse of the Potomac with the trim yacht lying in the middle of the stream. The Queen was entranced with the beauty of the view and returned to the veranda again and again.

Within the mansion they viewed the relics of the great American with more than passing interest and her majesty, a student of art, described as "wonderful" Houdon's bust of Washington, made while he was alive.

Then they were escorted about the quaint old-fashioned flower gardens, the kitchen, laundry and coach house. Queen Elizabeth clambered into the ancient carriage in which Washington rode with Martha Custis, poked her

Gompers Tells Albert About Labor Unrest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was one of those who called upon King Albert of the Belgians here to-day. Their conference lasted forty-five minutes. "He's a real man, even if he is a king," said Mr. Gompers as he left. "I neither bow down nor look down. A man is a man. I found King Albert very interesting, and I was glad of an opportunity to renew the acquaintance which began at La Panne. We talked upon many subjects, and I found him well informed. The labor situation and the unrest of the workers naturally were mentioned, and I think I was able to give the King some information he did not have, but of course I am not at liberty to give his views upon any of the topics we touched upon."

head out the window and smiled gleefully.

A huge seaplane circled over the grounds while the party strolled about the two other naval aircraft followed the Mayflower far down the river from Washington, dipping, circling and looping the loop.

The Mayflower docked at the navy yard at 6:10 o'clock and the royal Belgians were driven at once to the residence of Assistant Secretary of State Long. They were the guests to-night at a formal dinner given in their honor by Secretary and Mrs. Lansing. The Belgians wore court dress and the military members of the party were resplendent with medals and decorations.

"I look like the 'Midnight Frolics,'" exclaimed Lieutenant General Baron Jacques to a civilian who stood near him as he caught a glimpse of himself in a mirror.

Crown Prince Leopold, Duke of Brabant, was taken ill to-night at the dinner given in honor of the Belgian royal visitors at the residence of Secretary Lansing. He was removed to the Long residence, where Lieutenant Colonel Nolf, the King's personal physician, attended him and announced his ailment as a slight attack of indigestion.

Pressmen's Return Brings on a Strike Of Electrotypers

Union Men Quit When the Publishers Sign Agreement With 'Secessionists' and Re-employ Them

The International Electrotypers' Union yesterday carried out the threat made at the outbreak of the lockout of the so-called secessionist unions of pressmen and feeders that it would call out its men from any plants who ventured to break away from the Printers' League, the organization of employing printers, and conclude agreements with the secessionists.

The electrotypers employed at the plant of Street & Smith, publishers of several magazines, walked out yesterday when it became known that the company had met the demands of the secessionists and a number of them had arrived at the plant to resume work. Announcement of this was made at a meeting of the Printers' League at the Hotel Astor by William Green, chairman of the labor committee. Mr. Green said:

"With the exception of this one firm, there is no indication in the ranks of the Printers' League of any wavering. The league voted its confidence in and cooperation to the committee without a dissenting vote. This means we will all stick together in this fight against direct action tactics. Incidentally, the action of the electrotypers, who refused to work after Street & Smith had signed an agreement with the secessionists, is a disgraceful act of dealing with the men not recognized by international unions. Even if members of the Printers' League did deal with the secessionists they could accomplish nothing when the electrotypers walk out."

The Martin B. Brown Company, 39 Chambers Street, one of the largest printing firms in the city, which has done the city's printing for years, was notified yesterday by the five presidents of the international unions of the printing trades, representing the photoengravers, electrotypers and compositors, that the company must cease to use the label of the Allied Printing Trades on their work or else they would be considered as employed in their shop from the ranks of the secessionist unions with men in good standing with the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union. The notice served on the Brown Company stated that the five international unions are joint owners of the label. The Brown company granted the demands of the secessionists some time ago.

Arthur J. Baldwin, vice-president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company and chairman of the Publishers' Committee of Five, representing the Periodical Publishers' Association, told 300 members of the Advertising Club at a luncheon at 47 East Twenty-fifth Street that the trouble with organized labor is that "they don't earn what they get."

Victims of "Rebellion" He said that the printing trades of New York were the victims of the "rebellion" now in progress in the ranks of organized labor on the part of the radicals against the conservatives. He assailed unionism in general and said that it was unbecomingly rapidly to the craze for direct action, which he characterized as a by-product of Prussianism.

"The only kind of union the American people should recognize," Mr. Baldwin said, "is the Union which they fought to establish in 1775 and to preserve in 1861. Baldwin was as bitter against the international unions of the printing trades as against the so-called secessionists."

It became known yesterday with the arrival of "Life" from Boston, where it is being temporarily printed, that the publication has been compelled to "kill" a cartoon satirizing union labor by the pressmen of that city, who threatened to quit unless this was done. The cartoon depicted an assailant in the act of striking a woman and ransacking her house, while two policemen at the door refused to take action on the ground that the assailant held a union card. The Boston pressmen contended that the cartoon was a gross libel on organized labor.

90 Dry Agents in Connecticut HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 29.—Connecticut, which has not been very moist since July 1, because of heavy sentences imposed by a Brooklyn judge in a test case, will have about ninety special detectives looking for illegal sales of beer or liquor. In an announcement tonight James J. Walsh, collector of internal revenue, explained the provisions of the law and declared his men would enforce it rigidly.

Jury of Women Convicts Wife

Advisory Council Appointed by Judge Appeals for Clemency

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 29.—"Ladies of the jury." To-day for the first time in the history of Cleveland courts a judge began his charge to the jury with those words.

The jury had been called in the case of Mrs. Goldie Drossos, who told the court at her preliminary hearing Monday that a woman could understand only such love as hers. It was alleged that Mrs. Drossos left her husband in Columbus and had come to Cleveland with her three children to live with John C. Buttery, a window trimmer employed with a local concern.

Judge Sawicki asked eight women to sit as an advisory council in the final disposition of the case.

The jury returned the following verdict:

"The jury stands for the conviction of both defendants and one for acquittal on circumstantial evidence. The majority recommends mercy in the case of Mrs. Drossos because of her infant, whom we advise should be left in her care, and that the two other children be returned to the Columbus authorities to be placed with the father, Mr. Drossos, to pay for their support until such time as Mrs. Drossos proves herself a fit mother. In the case against Mr. Buttery, we recommend the maximum penalty."

Judge Sawicki pronounced sentence of maximum penalty for each. He offered to suspend Mrs. Drossos' sentence if she would consent to return to her husband.

"I will not go back to him," she replied.

The judge sentenced her and her co-defendant to pay a fine of $200 each and serve three months in the workhouse.

N. Y. Fourth In Roosevelt Fund Campaign

Incomplete Returns Show Illinois Is First With $225,667, Three Times the Empire State Figures

First returns in the canvass being made by the Roosevelt Memorial Association for funds to erect permanent memorials to the memory of the former President show that Illinois is leading the country in amounts contributed, the association announced yesterday.

Illinois, with returns incomplete, has raised $225,667. Other states, territories and countries reporting first totals are as follows:

Ohio, $187,000; Missouri, $120,000; New York, $71,561; California, $64,000; Oklahoma, $50,000; Washington, $34,287; Hawaii, $20,000; New Jersey, $17,000; Texas, $16,000; Colorado, $16,000; Alabama, $15,000; Tennessee, $15,000; and Panama, $7,700.

In reporting these totals by telegraph, chairmen of the various committees declared that the figures given represent only a small fraction of the total amounts subscribed.

The total reported from New York represents only what came in by unsolicited mail subscriptions; the association said. Of this sum more than $80,000 came from New York City in single contributions of a dollar or less. No official figures on memberships in the organized efforts of committees in the five boroughs are ready yet.

Full returns from various parts of the country have been delayed by storms in the Northwest and heavy rains in the South. A report received from Arkansas said that more than 7,000 meetings were held in that state on Sunday and Roosevelt Day.

The New York Stock Exchange has already enlisted 414 of its members in the association, the exchange committee reported. New York lawyers, headed by Alton B. Parker, organized a committee to press the campaign among attorneys in this city. The following letter was sent to 3,500 members of the bar:

"The Roosevelt Memorial Association has been founded to uphold, maintain and foster the principles of Theodore Roosevelt: 'One flag, the American flag; one language, the language of the Declaration of Independence; one loyalty, to the American people.'"

"No better means can be found to enable Americans to express their adherence to these principles than their enrollment as members of the association."

"It is not the intention of the committee to solicit funds; we merely desire to bring you to the realization that membership in this organization—perpetuating the memory of an American of Americans and insuring the continuance of his ideals of staunch Americanism—is a privilege which should be availed of by all men and women who have the welfare of this country at heart and is a duty for those who are leaders of thought by reason of their training and position."

Others serving on the committee with Mr. Parker are George L. Ingraham, Lewis L. DeLaford, Louis Marshall, Martin Conboy and David Asch.

The large number of subscription blanks received from children accompanied by pennies, nickels and dimes has surprised the association. Each child will receive an engraved certificate of membership.

Two ways to increase your gasoline mileage

How motorists can save real money on fuel bills

MOST motorists today are wasting money on gasoline. They are using far too rich a mixture of air and gasoline vapor.

The most efficient mixture for every automobile is 15 parts of air to 1 of gasoline.

The February 1917 Bulletin of the Society of Automotive Engineers shows the 15 to 1 mixture of air and fuel to be scientifically correct for all loads and all speeds.

Every motorist can use 15 to 1, the real efficiency mixture, if he wants to. Here's how to do it!

1. Use Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, that vaporizes fast.
2. Set your carburetor at 15 to 1—this article tells you how.

Why low-grade or sluggish gasoline wastes fuel

Sluggish gasoline vaporizes slowly. There are three kinds of sluggish gasoline on the market:

- (1) Common, low-grade gasoline of 52° to 56° gravity.
- (2) Low-grade gasoline or kerosene blended with very light casing-head gasoline to improve quality.
- (3) Gasoline mixed with kerosene.

A large percentage of such gasoline never becomes vapor at all. That unvaporized gasoline cannot explode and cannot help drive your engine. It is waste fuel. To produce even fair results, sluggish gasoline requires a "rich," wasteful mixture.

Unvaporized fuel means low gasoline mileage and wasted money. It also means excess carbon, sticky piston rings, gummed-up valves and diluted lubricating oil. It is the principal cause of an engine that lacks power.

The new economy gasoline—uses 15 to 1 mixture

Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, vaporizes fast. It is made to give best results in a 15 to 1 mixture of air and fuel.

Tydol burns up clean and reduces carbon. Thus it eliminates many engine troubles.

And yet Tydol sells at the same price as ordinary gasoline.

The diagram shows how Tydol saves fuel.

Where you can buy Tydol

Tydol is sold by progressive, high-grade garages and filling stations. Look for the orange and black sign.

Try Tydol in your car today. You will save money and get more power.

What really explodes in your engine

With low grade gasoline

8 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline

With TYDOL the economy gasoline

15 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline

How to make 15 to 1 adjustment

Fill the gasoline tank with Tydol and warm up your engine. With the car standing still and the engine running, use the gasoline adjustment on the carburetor to decrease gradually the quantity of gasoline going through the bowl of the carburetor until the engine begins to slow down.

Then increase the proportion of gasoline going through until you get a maximum engine speed, but not a fraction faster.

With Tydol you will get approximately a 15 to 1 mixture (15 parts air to 1 part gasoline).

The same procedure with low grade gasoline will decrease the proportions to about an 8 to 1 mixture (8 parts air to 1 part gasoline). This means low mileage and excess carbon deposits.

Tydol is made so you can use less fuel and more air.

Court Rules Husband Must Stay in Jail

Prisoner, Who Cannot Furnish $500 Alimony Bond, Faces Life Term

David Goldhaber, who has come to be known as the "life prisoner of Ludlow Street jail," failed yesterday in his effort to obtain his release.

Arrested six months ago because he could not furnish a $500 bond to guarantee the payment of alimony to his wife, who is suing him for a separation, Goldhaber has been a guest of Sheriff Knott in Ludlow Street jail ever since. If Goldhaber had been committed for contempt for failure to pay alimony he could have been detained only six months. Now he can be released only if he can secure a bond or if Mrs. Goldhaber should relent, which she refuses to do.

Goldhaber obtained a writ of habeas corpus, his attorney contending that he could not be detained indefinitely. Supreme Court Justice Hendrick yesterday dismissed the writ and directed that Goldhaber continue in jail.
